

Wario bros & Maya the Bee! 04/05/2019 21:34 | 09/05/2019 02:48
Series 2, Episode 3(11): Go for it, Warrio!

It's a sunny day on Dumb-Crow Isle, and outside the Wario bros' house Warrio and VARIO are having a game of table tennis. Warrio is the one to serve the ball, while VARIO stands on the other side, ready to swing with his little racket.

"Come on Warrio. Serve it now and not tomorrow! I can't wait all day!" VARIO said in anticipation of hitting the ball back.

"Alright, patience VARIO! You know how I always need to prepare before I hit the ball. If I hurry, I might as well not even hit the thing." Warrio said.

"Yeah, right..." VARIO said.

"Ok VARIO, here comes the ball. Hit back if you can!" Warrio said and hits the ball with his racket. At first the ball seems to bounce over to VARIO's side like it's supposed to according to physics law, but stops right in front of him and does a couple volts in mid-air, and falls straight down to the table and then bounces down to the ground.

"But hey... H-how's that EVEN possible?!?" an confused VARIO said.

"Waahoo, I've won the game! I've WON the game!!" Warrio said, feeling triumphant over his first victory. VARIO on the other hand is not amused by Warrio's way of handling his emotions when it comes to winning a game, especially when he starts with his silly dancing.

"Sigh... Warrio can't even dance properly... not that I know how to dance either, but... ah well, maybe you know what I mean, right." VARIO said as he keeps looking at Warrio dancing in various stupid ways, including jumping on his behind all around the place.

At this very moment Cindella then appears on her ice skates, heading for the house of the Wario bros. As soon as he sees her in front of him he stops with his rather goofy victory dance. Maya, who is sitting outside her house sunbathing, waves at her.

"Hi sis!" Maya called to her.

"Oh, hi Maya!" Cindella waved back to her.

"Heh, hello Cindella... I... I didn't expect to see you around here today!" Warrio said.

"Well Warrio, I'm just heading outside for something exciting to do instead of sitting at home being bored all day." Cindella said. Warrio then holds out his hand in front of her, wanting to shake her hand. She instead kisses him on the nose, which Warrio didn't quite expect from her.

"Wow... ah well, suppose shaking hands may not even be needed in this case..." Warrio jokingly said. Cindella starts laughing after he says this, with him doing the same in response. A ball then hits Warrio while he still has his back turned.

"Hey Warrio! How about a rematch??" VARIO asked him and shoots another ball at Warrio.

"Ow... Er, would you like to have a go, Cindella? That is, if you know how to play table tennis?" Warrio asked her.

"Sorry, but I don't think I can. I'm not very good at table tennis, sadly." Cindella declined.

"Ok VARIO, looks like it's you and me again!" Warriio said and starts to try hit the balls back to VARIO's side, but misses almost every single one of them. One of the balls he missed then lands right at Cindella's feet.

"Oh, looks like you missed one of them." Cindella said and picks up the ball and gives it to Warriio. The moment Warriio grabs it off from her fingers he suddenly feels the sense of love rushing through his mind. After he's taken the ball Cindella then heads in to their house.

"Oh my garlic..." is all Warriio can say before he starts shattering down into pieces like a vase.

"Gee. Talk about being shattered to pieces just by being near some bee girl..." VARIO said to himself.

Inside their house, Warriio is now searching for Cindella, wondering what she might be doing. Just then he sees her skating down on the stair rails with inlines on her feet. She clears loop after loop, and makes her way through the zig-zag parts of the rail, eventually getting down on the floor landing on her feet.

"Aaaaah..." was all what came from Warriio after seeing this performance of hers, with his tongue simply hanging out. Cindella rolls his tongue back into his mouth and closes it.

"Come on Warriio. You should try and have a go as well!" Cindella said and runs back up the stairs. Still standing at the same spot, Warriio's tongue drops out again. Wario-Ware-Man then walks past him, noticing Warriio just standing there with his tongue out.

"Tsk tsk. Warriio, you really shouldn't be having your tongue out like that! You're not some kind of animal, are you?" Wario-Ware-Man told Warriio and starts walking off again. After snapping out of his little trance Warriio heads down to the cellar to see if there's some spare roller blades lying around. After digging through all the junk he then finds a pair of roller blades.

"Ah, there we have them... not the most fancy-looking ones, but they will have to do I guess." Warriio said and puts them on his feet. Before going upstairs again he takes a quick look among the trash and boxes to see if his old Game Boy Color handheld console is in there.

"I'm sure it's in here somewhere. I was the one who helped packing the boxes when I and VARIO decided to move out of our old house back in the 'Wario Fatsos Inc' days." Warriio said and keeps rooting through the boxes. He can't find it anywhere though.

"Ah, it's simply too much stuff to look through! Suppose it must be pretty deep in one of the boxes. Shame... I really wanted to find it again and see if it still worked... ah well, perhaps another day maybe. Cindella's probably waiting for me up there by now!" Warriio said and rushes back upstairs. On the upper floor of the house Cindella's now skating down the stair rail. A moment later Warriio comes down on the other side, kicking his legs about for a few seconds because his roller blades makes it tough for him to keep himself on his feet.

"Ah, there you are Warriio! Wonder where you went off to for a while there." Cindella said.

"Oh, hi there Cindella!" Warriio said after regaining his balance again. "I just took a bit of time down in the cellar, because I couldn't find my roller blades at first. But now I'm here, ready to show what I'm made of!"

"Alright. See you downstairs!" Cindella said and starts speeding on ahead. She makes all the way down to the end of the rail and waits for Warriio. Warriio prepares to brake when he finally gets to the end, but the wheels on one of his roller blades starts falling off, which makes Warriio do a volt in the air and landing on his rear. He then starts sliding down the rail on his side while feeling pain in his crotch.

"YEEOW!! Bad roller blades. BAD roller blades!! OUCH!!!" Warriio said while grinding his teeth in pain.

Cindella sits on her side watching Wario sliding down the rail on his side. He comes to a stop after hitting the knob sitting on the end of the stairrail, causing him a lot of pain.

"Oh... are you ok Wario??" Cindella asked him.

"Gnn... Oh, me? ... hah, 'course I'm fine... now, if you excuse me..." Wario said while pretending to be fine and starts heading to the bathroom. On his way to the bathroom he stumbles upon VARIO who still wants to play table tennis.

"Ah, Wario. Say, will you..." VARIO tried to speak.

"Not now, VARIO... maybe tomorrow." Wario refused and keeps stepping his way to the bathroom, leaving an confused VARIO scratching his head over why Wario is stepping instead of walking like normal. After Wario finally makes it into the bathroom and closing the door he then empties his bladder. The camera still remains outside.

"Aah... Oww... now that was just more than needed!" Wario said and remains in the bathroom for some time. After a good night's sleep, the next morning Wario gets out of the bedroom, letting out a big yawn causing a fly just flying nearby to implode upon smelling the horrible breath coming from Wario's mouth.

"Aah, that was quite a good night's sleep indeed. And I no longer feel the pain from yesterday..." Wario said. When he reaches the living room he sees an very unusual sight; Cindella is practising karate!

"Who in their right mind would ever practise karate in the morning like that?? That Cindella sure must be a very active girl indeed... and I'm not even properly dressed!! ... hm. I wonder..." Wario thought to himself and looks around to see if there's anything lying around he can use as a karate belt. Just then he spots an little Wario nose crawling on the floor, minding its own business collecting boogers. Wario picks it up and stretches out its moustache for legs, and ties it around his belly.

"Ha! Like I always say; if you haven't got a belt, use a Wario nose as one instead." Wario said and heads into the living room again. While Cindella practises on various karate moves Wario makes a very amateurish entrance.

"Whistles Yohoo Wario, come over here!" Cindella called to him.

"Goulp... alright, here goes." Wario said to himself and walks over to where Cindella's standing.

"Do you know how to do karate?" Cindella asked him.

"Of course. Just watch!" Wario said and tries his best to show off his karate moves, even though his karate skills are really next to nonexistent.

"Oh... good going there Wario!" Cindella praised him. "Though you do need to work out your moves a little bit before you can be considered a master of karate."

"But... at least I did quite good, didn't I?" Wario said.

"Aw Wario, you sure did." Cindella said.

"Alright. I've seen that you're quite good at it too! Would you maybe show me how skilled you really are at karate?" Wario asked her.

"A lot better than you think... in fact, I've been practising it for quite a long time. After all, karate takes time to master, and it certainly isn't for everyone." Cindella said.

"Oh, ok... now, show me how good you are. Show me, show me!" Warriio asked her. Cindella then stands right in front of Warriio, and a moment later she kicks him in the face so hard with her bare foot that his teeth fall out, and grabs him and hurls back and forth on the floor at a very quick speed.

A while later we see VARIO walking into the living room. He sees Cindella sitting on the sofa and asks her if she's up for a game of table tennis.

"Sorry, but I'm not good at that sort of game. Besides, I'm currently taking a break with Warriio here." she said and pulls up a book and starts reading on it. The camera then pans to the left showing Warriio sitting to the left side of the sofa looking almost beaten up.

"Oh my garlic... what happened to you Warriio?" VARIO asked him.

"Been practising karate, what else... and no, I'm not up for a game of table tennis. Right now I just wanna sit here and relax for a hour or so." Warriio said.

Meanwhile, Wario-Ware-Man is in the cellar rooting through all the boxes, mostly to go down memory lane. No sooner does he find strange things in them.

"Ah, here we have something! ... seems to be the diary of Poobah the Pharaoh...? Oh, this must be the one I stumbled upon in one of these boxes long ago... and if I'm right, even now this rather boring book will just say 'TEST' on EVERY single page! That Pharaoh fellow apparantly didn't have too much of an creative mind, nor anything sensible to write in his little diary here..." Wario-Ware-Man said and throws away the diary, and looks into the box once more. He then finds some kind of photo album containing pictures from their previous adventures from the The Wario Show series.

"Hm... this page has picures from the 2nd part of the series, including a couple photos with Brandy and my other siblings. The other page has pictures from when we went into... some sort of 'Spies' cartoon or whatever... Meh, I just can't remember any of this stuff. No matter how hard I try to think back, I have almost ZERO memory of all events from series 2..." Wario-Ware-Man said and keeps looking in the album.

"Ah, now here's something more memorable... to me at least. What anyone else thinks is their own problem, not mine... Anyhow, these photos must be from the first part of stories from The Wario Show... that apparantly had its many shortcomings and flaws, I know... One of the photos here are of Warriio's parrot cooking food outside the garden, and the others are from the period when 'Wario-Island' was known as 'Shadow Moses Island', particularly this set of photos from an now non-existent competition show called 'Glupskiness!' ... must say that things really looked quite different back in those days, what with all the snow and ice around that's visible on these photos..." Wario-Ware-Man said and flips through the pages.

"Hah, now here's some photos from the 3rd series! This was the series where things started to change, especially after Maya the Bee came to make her debut! My garlic, how quick the years have just gone by. I do wonder... if Wario really had been the main star of the The Wario Show series, and if the TV-adventuring idea that was almost a complete failure from the start didn't happen, could things have turned out different?" Wario-Ware-Man said and puts the photo album back in the box.

Wario-Ware-Man keeps rooting through the box and finds some more items they've kept over the years, only to end up forgetting about them.

"Hm, now here's an photo album with pictures of Blossom from The Powerpuff Girls series, playing with... a tiny version of myself?? ... I can't remember any of this happening... and I'm being honest. It has been so long now, and even if this sort of thing did happen, I... well... ah whatever, I just don't remember this thing, ok?" Wario-Ware-Man said and puts the album aside, and takes a look at some other items.

"Here we have a photo of just Blossom, along with an red ribbon bow... These things on the other hand I recall getting from Blossom herself in some way. How or why, I don't really remember..." Wario-Ware-Man said and puts the things aside. After digging deeper into the box Wario-Ware-Man then finds something REALLY old and dusty; the big cauldron Wario used to make gold with from the very first episode of The Wario Show.

"Hm. How did this one get in here?? ... Oh yeah, Wario gave it to us after he moved out of his house because he no longer saw any need for it... you know, I haven't really found any use for it either. Apart from making gold with, what else could one do with it?? Wario must've had this thing lying around in his cellar for a very long time, because it sure has gathered lots of dust and cobwebs over the years..." Wario-Ware-Man said and puts the cauldron back into the box. He keeps looking into some more boxes to try find some more obscure stuff of theirs.

Meanwhile, elsewhere Cindella is riding up a hill on her bicycle. Not seeing Wario behind her, she stops and calls out to Wario.

"Warioooo!!!" she called his name. Further down the hill, Wario is trying his best to get up to the hill despite a broken front tire on his bicycle.

"panting Coming Cindella! Comiiing!!!" Wario called back to her. He eventually makes it up the hill and stops just behind Cindella's bike.

"At last... I... made it up that hill..." Wario said tiredly.

"Yeah, it sure was quite tough." Cindella said.

"Yep. Like it ever was any harder for me though..." Wario said. They both stay right where they are for a moment, with them both staring at each other. As Wario sees the beauty that is Cindella in front of his eyes, he can only think about one thing...

"I better tell her that now, or I'll never get the chance until next time..." Wario thought to himself.

"Are you ready to continue on Wario?" Cindella asked him.

"Well, I..." Wario tried to speak.

"Ok then. See you down the other side of the hill!" Cindella said and starts biking off again, leaving an already tired Wario balancing on his bike.

"Darn it... I was just about to tell to her how much I love her..." Wario said, and just after saying that he falls over to the side and into a ditch.

"Aoww... I'm never gonna catch up with her like this." Wario said and throws the bike aside.

"In this kind of situation you need a little more speed, and luckily I have JUST the right kind of transportation for such an occasion!" Wario said and pulls out his Wario-Bike from his pocket on his overalls and drives off on it to catch up with Cindella.

"Hah. Who needs a bicycle when you can just take your old trusty Wario-Bike!" Wario said as he keeps on driving. Little does he know though, that just in front of him is a small turtle sleeping inside its shell. Without noticing Wario bumps right into it, causing his bike to spiral out of control,.

"Yaaargh!!!" Wario yelled as he kept on spinning. After regaining control of his bike again Wario tries to put on the brakes, but is dismayed to find out that the brake on the handle has stopped functioning.

"Ah crap... not only has the steering handle gone kaput, so have even the brakes! ... I've got a feeling that taking the Wario-Bike probably wasn't such a good thing..." Warrio said. With no way to properly control his bike, Warrio is forced to drive off the road and into the open air.

"Uh-oh..." was all Warrio could say as his bike keeps drifting in the air. At that same moment, Cinderella is biking down a grassy hill, only to stop and look up to see something very strange.

"Huh...? isn't that Warrio up there??" Cinderella asked herself.

"Honks on his horn Hey Cinderella! The view is quite lovely up here, isn't it!" Warrio said while he keeps flying on his bike. All Cinderella can do is scratch her head in confusion.

Back to where Warrio is, he can only wonder what's gonna happen next. And sure enough, while looking down he realizes that in a matter of seconds he's going to land right into a motorbike driving contest.

"Aaw, not THIS too!!" Warrio said to himself. Over to Cinderella, she's now speeding ahead to find out where Warrio's going to.

"Where could Warrio have possibly gone to? I hope to eventually catch up with him in one way or another." Cinderella said and keeps on biking.

Back to Warrio again, he has now landed on the racing track of the motorbike-competition, and is now driving alongside the other racers.

"My garlic. I'm now in a competition, and I haven't even been asked to take part in it!!" Warrio said and tries to steer himself away from the other racers, but due to the steering handle being out of function he ends up driving into them anyway, making many of the racers go off course and crash into obstacles.

Warrio ends up driving two laps on the course, and on his last lap he's the one currently in lead.

"My garlic, never would I've thought that this bike of mine could actually steer itself!" Warrio said. Warrio is about to pass the finish line. Initially relieved to be in first place, he then realizes that he's unable to stop his bike, and all he can do is watch in horror the closer he gets to the finish line.

"Oh my garlic!! This will be a bit painful for me I suppose!" Warrio said and covers his eyes. He passes the finish line and crashes his bike right into the winners pedestal.

"Ouch... that really hurt..." Warrio said and gets the bike off of himself. Just then he is applauded by the public, including Cinderella who has been seeing him "taking part" in the contest.

"Good going there Warrio! You really managed to win the race!" Cinderella applauded him.

"Aha, and what am I getting for winning this 'race'?" Warrio said.

"First prize basically. And you've also won my heart! This time you've really impressed me." Cinderella said and heads over to Warrio to give him a kiss.

"Wow... at last, I've finally conquered my love!!" Warrio said and just puts a big smile on his face, after which some of his teeth fall off. Warrio then passes out as a result of the impact.

Later, Warrio is seen back at the Wario bros' house, now sitting on a wheelchair with a broken foot. Cinderella is now bandaging his right arm.

"Aaow, aaow... not so hard!" Warrio said in pain.

"I'm trying to be careful Warrio. How's your foot now?" Cindella said.

"Still painful, but the pain has subsided somewhat." Warrio said. After Cindella's finished bandaging Warrio arm she gives him a kiss on his chin.

"You'll be fine Warrio. You've only hurt a few limbs on your body." Cindella said.

"Well, thanks Cindella." Warrio said. VARIO however still wonder about the table tennis game they had last day.

"Um... sorry if I'm interrupting your romantic moment, but... would you mind playing one last match with me, Warrio?" VARIO said.

"Well, tell you what... why not just buzz off with your silly little table tennis! I'm not in the mood for it now." Warrio told him off. Maya heads over to their side to bid farewell to Cindella.

"Bye Cindella. It's a shame I haven't had the chance to see you much this day..." Maya said as she hugs her sister, with Cindella doing the same.

"No need to worry Maya. I'll come over and visit you someday." Cindella told her.

"Sorry Cindella, but are you two done hugging each other anytime soon? I wanna get to the hospital as soon as possible!" Warrio said.

"Oh, alright Warrio, I understand. Bye everyone. I may come back again one day!" Cindella said and goes off with Warrio to take him to the hospital.

"Bye bye Cindella!" Maya bid farewell to Cindella.

"Wonder what Warrio's really up to these days... in one moment he's not interested in women, but now he suddenly falls for one, and that girl happens to be... a bee? ... I just simply can't get this into my head." VARIO said.

"Don't bother too much about it VARIO. Change must eventually happen, and when Warrio laid eyes on my sister the first time, he somehow fell in love with her. I guess it just had to happen at some point!" Maya told VARIO.

"Er... yeah, maybe you're right about that... say, you wanna play table tennis with me?" VARIO asked her.

"No thanks, I don't have the time right now. I'm busy with watering my flowers in my back garden. You're on your own there I'm afraid." Maya said.

"Oh, alright. Anyhow, Warrio and Cindella seemed to have forgot this trophy here!" VARIO said.

"Well, they may have just left it here on your side while Warrio's being taken to the hospital." Maya said and goes to water her flowers.

"Oh yeah... maybe you just can't do both things at the same time..." VARIO said and takes a look at his surroundings for a moment. He spots an lonely Wario nose on their lawn minding its own business collecting boogers.

"Sigh... you Wario noses don't know how such a great and simple life you're living; wandering around for hours collecting nose boogers, and garlic. At other times you jump towards other people whenever they reek of garlic... if only my life were that simple..." VARIO said to himself.

Not having anyone to play table tennis with, and knowing that Wario-Ware-Man wouldn't be having time for it either, VARIO decides to call it quits.

"Alright, time for me to put away the tennis table then." VARIO said and is about to unfold the table, but turns to the Wario nose again to ask it if it would like to play with him.

"Say, Wario nose... would you mind playing some table tennis?" VARIO asked it. The Wario nose responds to him in some sort of unknown language, mostly consisting of random noises, and starts hopping away.

"So, not even Wario noses wants to play table tennis then..." VARIO said to himself. He then takes one last look at the trophy Wario won at the motorbike-competition earlier.

"Gotta admit this trophy looks kinda cool... not only is it in gold, it even has a Wario moustache in front of it! ... whatever, I better head back in now before the rainweather starts in an hour or so." VARIO said and unfolds the tennis table and puts it back in the garage, and closes the garage door to signify the end of this episode.

Well, and that's how this episode ends. Despite all the odds against him, Wario finally managed to conquer his love! Anyway, in story #4 the Wario bros will be taking on flying. Who really knows how things could possibly end for our friends, and whether they'll get to fly or not is something that will be revealed in episode 4.

The End...