

Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings are watching TV in the living room together with Maya the Bee, the latter who have come over to their house to spend some time with them. Right now the program on TV is about bird wildlife. Yes, I, Wario-Ware-Man, are the narrator for this series, as has been the case since the beginning... no particular reason as to why I'm saying this, but I thought I'd just let you know before hand.

"Aaw, look at those newly born chicks... I can only imagine how life as a bird could be..." Maya said to herself. Wario-Ware-Man and his pals however just chuckle at the sight on the TV, which irritates Maya slightly.

"Hrm... you three don't appreciate wildlife that much, do you?" Maya told them. Next scene coming up on TV is the bird mother with one of her children, encouraging it to take off and fly. After looking down the little chick looks to her mother and shakes his head, not wanting to plummet down to his doom. The mother starts getting more demanding and sends the chick out into the air. After a couple flaps with his wings the chick miraculously manages to stay airborne.

"Hah, look! That little chick is just flapping his wings like an nutcase!" Warrio said and began to ridicule the chick on TV by waving his arms up and down, with VARIO doing the same thing.

"Grr... you guys REALLY don't seem to respect the way animals live!" Maya told them off. While Warrio and VARIO keep ridiculing the chick on TV, Wario-Ware-Man is in a state of thought.

"My garlic... the thought of being able to fly like that is just too great..." Wario-Ware-Man said to himself. No sooner though does Wario-Ware-Man get an idea.

"Hey you nuts, stop flapping your arms like that. I've got an idea!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Alright... VARIO, stop! Wario-Ware-Man seems to have something on mind." Warrio told VARIO.

"Oh, ok." VARIO said and stops waving his arms.

"I was thinking a little when I saw that chick on TV, and... maybe we should go outside and try flying?" Wario-Ware-Man suggested to his pals.

"Are you nuts? We haven't got any wings, nor are we even birds, and we'll more than likely plummet down to the ground should we even attempt to fly." Warrio said.

"Yes, but I wanna try it anyway. There's other methods we can use to fly you know! So, what do you guys say?" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Hm... well, maybe it'll not be as bad of an idea like I first thought. How about you VARIO?" Warrio said.

"Don't count on me! I'm very afraid of heights, and you guys know it very well!" VARIO protested.

"VARIO, we've got to try this! If Wario-Ware-Man's decided on something that involves all of us, then we've all gotta be there! ... say, who of us is gonna be the test subject anyway?" Warrio said.

"That's pretty much undecided for now. That's all I can really say." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Oh, right..." Warrio said.

"So... are you guys for it?" Wario-Ware-Man asked.

"I'm 100% up for it! ... and you, VARIO?" Warrio said.

"Hm... alright, I'll follow along with you guys. Haven't got anything else on mind right now." VARIO said.

"We're all decided then? In that case, let's go outside and attempt some flying!" Wario-Ware-Man said and head outside with his other siblings. Maya however are still in front of the TV which now show a pair of bees extracting honey from a big flower.

"Hm, I'm feeling a bit hungry now by simply watching this programme... I know what I'll do today; I'll start my own flower bed in my backgarden where I can make honey from my flowers!" Maya said and storms out of the Wario bros' house.

Later outside the backgarden to their house, Wario-Ware-Man and his pals are now standing on top of the big tree outside on the branch, with the goal being to fly to the roof of their house.

"Ok fellas. What we're going to do is fly over to the top of our house. I'll be the one to do it..." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"A little something before we start though... I've been having this question on my mind for a long time now... what has Snake been up to since the days of The Wario Show? Is he still living inside of that little metal box of his?" Warrio said.

"Um... It's been so long now that even I can't fully remember whatever that guy's doing nowadays... the most recent news I heard of Snake is that... for one, he's still living in that little metal thing." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Is he still just sitting on his sofa watching TV?" VARIO asked.

"Not really... while he does have a big widescreen TV now, he's rarely ever watching anything on it. Nowadays he seems to like playing card games with some of his friends that none of us have really seen for ourselves." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Hm, times sure have changed since the early days... back in the day he often used to watch on his TV, primarily horse races, football, baseball, and all that, and the thing he always tend to cheer over is some horse, some kind of league, or whatever, called 'Snake Rattle 'n Roll'." Warrio said.

"Which incidentally, apparently also is the name of some game released on the Sega Mega Drive..." VARIO said.

"Precisely VARIO... Well, the early days sure have come and gone... and that's all I know of Snake these days I'm afraid. Not that I really wanna know anything more about that guy anyway, but... whatever, let's just get started with the whole flying thing of ours. Wish me luck guys!" Wario-Ware-Man said and walks out onto the branch of the tree from which he'll be taking off from. However, he only manages to jump on the branch a few times, and that's about it.

"Gulp... I... I can't do it..." Wario-Ware-Man said and heads back to the other guys.

"What's wrong Wario-Ware-Man?" Warrio asked. Wario-Ware-Man then takes off his biker helmet.

"I can't do this. I'll likely plummet down the moment I even try to take off. You'll be the one to try Warrio." Wario-Ware-Man said and gives his helmet to Warrio.

"Wha? ME?? NO way. VARIO, you're the one who's going to fly!" Warrio said and hands the helmet over to VARIO.

"Oh no, not me! How about you..." VARIO said and looks to his left side, but realizes he's the last guy to be picked, and the other guys have now picked HIM to be the test subject. "Goulp... s-since you're looking at me, I suppose I will be the test subject?!" VARIO said. Wario-Ware-Man and Warrio nod to him in response.

"Oh yes." Warrio said.

"You're the last one around here, so... well, we gotta have SOMEONE as a test subject." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Oh no, I'm NOT gonna do it!" VARIO promptly refused.

"VARIO, you've been chosen as our test subject. You can't just back out of it now!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"No way, I'm so not gonna do it!!" VARIO said. The three of them have a little argument over who's going to fly only to come to a stop when Wario-Ware-Man proposes a way for them to come to a decision; a game of straws.

"The goal of this little game is easy; The one who grabs the shortest straw will be the one who's going to fly. I'll be the one who holds the straws, and you two will be picking your straw from my hand." Wario-Ware-Man said. VARIO picks his straw first, Warrio being second. Wario-Ware-Man then unfolds his hand to show he's been holding the longest straw the whole time, with VARIO's being the shortest of the three.

"Aw, tough luck there VARIO. Looks like you're going to do this anyhow." Wario-Ware-Man said and shakes VARIO's hand. They have VARIO sign some sort of in-case-of-death contract for whatever reason. After doing that VARIO's all ready for takeoff.

"Ok VARIO. Good luck. And remember, shouldn't you succeed to fly over to the rooftop, by having signed the contract you will be legible to have a bowl of curry-flavored garlic, along with a glass of juice, as our gratitude for you having at least tried." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Well... thanks guys. I feel a lot better already..." VARIO said.

"But, do you really think VARIO will be given that in case he falls down??" Warrio whispered to Wario-Ware-Man.

"No... but at least it made him walk out to the tip of the branch, and that's what matters. Besides, he won't be getting anything anyway, because... we don't really have that much to eat at home right now." Wario-Ware-Man whispered back.

"Ah, ok..." Warrio said.

After VARIO has made to the tip of the branch, but as he is about to start taking off he instead takes his chance to get down from the tree by running upside down on the branch.

"Hey VARIO, come back here!!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"I wonder how VARIO can just do something like that. I mean, aside from say cockroaches, almost no other creature can run down a tree like that!" Warrio said.

"Er, yep. This sight does leave one scratching their head... anyway, we better get him Warrio!!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Sigh... On my way Wario-Ware-Man." Warrio said.

They give chase, and without stopping. They chase VARIO around their house a few times, only for VARIO to run into Maya's property, with the others coming after him.

"Come back here I said VARIO!!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"NO WAY!" VARIO said and keeps trying to run away from them. While they're running about in Maya's property they run past just where Maya is standing doing some tidying up in her backgarden to prepare the flowers she will be growing.

"Hunh? What was that noise about??" Maya said and looks behind her shoulder to see what's going on. Not seeing anything, she shrugs her shoulders and resume her task. Wario-Ware-Man and Warriio stop at the front side of their house to see where VARIO might have gone.

"Can you see him anywhere, Warriio?" Wario-Ware-Man asked him.

"Nope. He's nowhere in sight." Warriio said.

"We're not giving up yet. VARIO might still be around here somewhere." Wario-Ware-Man said. After saying this they hear the sound of an engine starting. Out of the garage comes VARIO on his Wario-bike, driving off to the town at high speed.

"After him!! If we don't catch him we will likely never be able to carry out our flying session!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Well, if we fail to get ahold of him again, why not just do this flying thing yourself?" Warriio jokingly asked.

"Ha ha. Like I would ever do that. Besides, we picked VARIO to do it, didn't we?" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Yeah, we did... " Warriio said.

"Exactly. Now, get your bike out! We must get VARIO before he's outta town!" Wario-Ware-Man said and heads with Warriio into their garage to get their bikes. They hop up on their bikes and starts driving after VARIO.

Meanwhile down the town where VARIO is driving around at high speed. At first it looks like he has shaken off the other guys.

"They seem to have lagged behind a bit... Phew... might as well drive to some place where they won't be able to find me." VARIO said in relief. However, upon looking in his back mirror he sees that his siblings are still driving after him in the distance.

"Aw crap. Looks like they're closing in on me!" VARIO said and starts accelerating even more.

"VARIO's speeding on even more now Wario-Ware-Man!" Warriio said.

"We'll do the same thing. VARIO won't be getting away so easily, rest assured!" Wario-Ware-Man said. They speed on after VARIO. Over to VARIO, he's still speeding on, with the others hot on the wheels behind him.

"Oh garlic! I gotta shake those guys off somehow... but how??" VARIO said.

After a fairly long ride around the town VARIO is now almost back right where he started; outside the property to their house. At last it seems that VARIO's finally shaken off the other guys.

"Ha, they're nowhere in sight. Maybe I'll finally be able to go in and just take a break on the sofa." VARIO thought to himself.

"Not so fast, you cowardly fatso!" VARIO then heard the familiar voice of Wario-Ware-Man. VARIO looks behind him to see Wario-Ware-Man speeding on just behind him.

"B-but... HOW are you still behind me? I mean, I've been driving at the most top speed?!!!" VARIO said.

"Don't have the time to tell you why or how, but... we will soon have you cornered." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Oh really? At least nobody's in front of me!" VARIO said, but just after saying Wario then appears and stops his bike right in front of him. VARIO fails to stop his bike in time, and in his haste to turn his bike around starts spinning out of control.

"AAAAH!!!" said VARIO while his bike is now spinning around. He hits both Wario-Ware-Man and Wario, causing their bikes to also go out of control. The three of them end up driving into Maya's property, crashing their bikes just near the bed of honey flowers Maya's just planted.

"Ouch..." Wario said.

"Ok, VARIO. You're coming with us now!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Sigh... well, I appreciate that you guys like showing off with your bikes, but go and play with them elsewhere, ok?" Maya said and tells them to try stay away from her flower bed.

After finally getting VARIO again they're now standing just behind their house, having abandoned the idea of getting to the top of their house and focusing on just making VARIO fly. They have just finished building a big slingshot that they will launch VARIO from.

"Phew, that was a lotta work for sure... now, let's go and get VARIO!" Wario-Ware-Man said. After getting VARIO they head back to the slingshot they've just built.

"No, I don't want to do it. Let me go!" VARIO protested.

"Sorry, but we've got to do this." Wario-Ware-Man said. Before they can even put VARIO in the slingshot it fires all the three of them into the air.

"Aw no..." Wario-Ware-Man uttered to himself in disbelief. They land right next to Maya's honey flower again.

"Sigh, go and play elsewhere I said. I don't want my flowers ruined!" Maya told them.

"Alright. We promise not to land here again." Wario-Ware-Man said and takes his other pals with him.

The 2nd attempt sees VARIO having spiral feather strapped onto his feet, with Wario-Ware-Man and Wario holding him in place until they're ready to launch.

"Seriously guys, I don't wanna do this!" VARIO said.

"No matter. You're still gonna do this anyway." Wario said. When the springs under VARIO's feet have been pressed down for long enough they let go of VARIO. After releasing him he starts bouncing around. This attempt ends up backfiring on them straight away however, with VARIO bouncing around uncontrollably.

"We better keep ourselves outta the way!!" Wario said.

"Same here. Maybe this wasn't a good idea..." Wario-Ware-Man said. They try to keep themselves out of VARIO's way the best they can for a while.

"Please, somebody stop this!!" VARIO yelled as he keeps bouncing. After bouncing around a few times VARIO crashes into a small tree, hanging upside down from the little tree branch.

"Hm. Wonder if we can get VARIO unstuck somehow..." Wario wondered.

"We could try dragging him." Wario-Ware-Man said and starts pulling VARIO down, with Wario doing the same. Upon doing so however they all start bouncing up and down repeatedly until they're launched up into the air again.

"Aw, not again..." Wario-Ware-Man said. The Wario bros then land into Maya's inflatable swimming pool just behind the bee herself where she's still growing her honey flowers, making some water splash on her.

"Eek!!... Wario bros, get out of the pool and go back to your side, now!!" Maya tells them off.

"Yeah yeah..." Wario-Ware-Man said as he and the other guys are trying to get out of the pool.

Later in the backgarden outside the Wario bros' house, the third attempt at flying has Wario-Ware-Man and Wario use a pump to inflate VARIO so he'll fly off into air like a balloon. Wario's doing the pumping while Wario-Ware-Man keeps VARIO in place.

"*Pants* Sure is quite tiring to stand still using an bicycle pump just to inflate some guy..." Wario said.

"Well, just be glad that you're not in VARIO's place now. Anyhow, once VARIO is filled with air, we shall see how his little flight turn out like!" Wario-Ware-Man said. After a while Wario gets tired and stops pumping for a moment, and takes a look at VARIO who now is almost as round like a ball.

"My garlic, VARIO's almost as round as a ball now! ... now that I'm seeing this for myself... It's only a theory, but perhaps THIS might be why VARIO was always called 'The SEEMINGLY fat VARIO' in The Wario Show!" Wario said to himself.

"Hello, I'm still holding this fatso in place here! Keep pumping Wario!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Ok ok..." Wario said and starts pumping again. After being inflated with enough air VARIO is then sent off flying. They look up to the skies where VARIO is flying around in the air.

"You know, no matter what anyone tells you, in the end a fatso will always be able to fly in one way or another." Wario said.

"Yeah... only shame is humanity haven't come up with a way to make humans stay airborne..." Wario-Ware-Man said in agreement. They keep staring up the clouds for a minute or so. However, when they start looking down again they see VARIO coming towards them at great speed.

"Uh-oh... maybe this also wasn't such a great idea!!" Wario-Ware-Man said and starts to run, with Wario running after him. A crash is heard, with the camera then showing the three siblings having crashed into Maya's pool yet again, this time having caused an even bigger splash of water to come all over her.

"Grr... Wario bros, please leave my backside now!!" an now angered Maya yelled at them and shows them the way out. After the Wario bros have gone back to their side some shy little chick girl then passes by her property, which is obviously Priscilla from the Calimero series.

"My, this sure sounded pretty serious." Priscilla said.

"Oh, hi Priscilla. And yes, I got a little annoyed at those guys a moment ago. You see, I'm trying to grow some flowers in my backgarden, and whatever the Wario bros might be up to, they always end up crashing into my property for some reason, causing who knows what kind of disasters to happen." Maya said.

"Sure must be pretty hard to even grow anything if things like this keep happening then." Priscilla said.

"Sigh... I know. We're still friends despite this though." Maya said.

"Alright. Say, what kind of flowers are you trying to grow?" Priscilla asked.

"Honey flowers! It may sound like an impossible thing, but I believe I've figured out the process to make these kind of flowers, and it's something only I will ever come to know." Maya said.

"Interesting..." Priscilla said.

"Aw, it's nothing..." Maya was about to finish.

"No really, I mean it! It's not everyday I hear of someone trying to grow honey flowers!" Priscilla said.

"Thanks Priscilla!" Maya said.

"Anyhow, I gotta go now." Priscilla said.

"Ah, alright. Where are you off to by the way?" Maya asked her.

"Ah, nowhere special. Just seeing things around here basically. There's so much stuff on this island that's pretty new to me, and... well, anyway, see you around Maya!" Priscilla said and walks off.

"Alright, see ya!" Maya waved back to her.

Later, the Wario bros are now at attempt number 4, which sees VARIO having been strapped onto Wario-Ware-Man's bike, and in front of the bike is a newly built ramp, the intent being to launch the bike into the air. VARIO on the other hand are not too excited about it.

"I really don't wanna do this guys!" VARIO said.

"Don't worry VARIO. It's just an simple little experiment..." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"No really, I DON'T wanna do this!!" VARIO said and shakes his head. Wario-Ware-Man then grinned.

"Sorry VARIO, but are you going to fly so are you going to fly, and until all options are exhausted, there's simply no way out of it!" Wario-Ware-Man said and starts the engine on his bike and puts the lever on high speed. Much to their confusion though the bike won't start.

"Very strange... why aren't the bike driving off??" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Yep... maybe something in the front tire is preventing it from going." Wario said and takes a look on the front tire of the bike.

"Me on the other hand thinks it could be the engine..." Wario-Ware-Man said and walks to the back of his bike to inspect the engine. While he's taking a look at the backside of the bike it suddenly starts driving off along with Wario, leaving Wario-Ware-Man completely black due to the smoke emitted from the engine.

"Oh... suppose the bike was just taking a longer time to start, which rarely ever happens... Anyway, I'll just go and take a bath now." Wario-Ware-Man said and heads into Maya's backgarden by jumping over the fence separating their properties, and jumps down into Maya's swimming pool to take a bath. Over to Maya, she's growing more than irritated over all the accidents that keep happening while she's growing her honey flowers.

"Oooh...!! It's moments like this that I wish I planted my flowers indoors instead..." an now ticked off Maya said and tries to ignore what the Wario bros are doing. Over to Wario and VARIO, they've crashed with the bike into Maya's storage shed where she keeps all her garden tools, wich has caused almost every single thing in there to fly off all over the backgarden.

Later, on their fifth try at flying, VARIO is now standing on a fairly primitive and simple-looking seesaw. All VARIO can do is simply shake his head.

"Sigh... I just know that this isn't gonna work. I soo know it..." VARIO said to himself. Wario-Ware-Man and Wario, who now are standing on top of three boxes stacked together, are ready to jump on the seesaw.

"Ok VARIO, here we come!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

Wario-Ware-Man and Wario jump down on the seesaw, launching VARIO up in the air. After getting up a fair bit VARIO then fall back down again, launching the other guys instead.

"What the..." was the only thing Wario-Ware-Man could say. Wario-Ware-Man and Wario end up in Maya's backgarden once again, this time landing on the diving plank on the pool and then diving into it.

"Sometimes I really do wonder about those guys..." Maya said to herself while scratching her head in confusion. Her flower garden is now almost heavily protected to keep any disasters from destroying her work on it. Over to the swimming pool VARIO climbs up on it and reaches his hands to his siblings.

"You guys want me to help you out of the pool?" VARIO asked.

"I don't think it's necessary. The pool isn't really THAT deep you know!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

The sixth (and last) attempt sees VARIO having been put into an catapult. Being tired of it all by now, VARIO just chooses to sit in there while Wario-Ware-Man checks the sharpness of the edge of the knife he's holding in his hand.

"Are you sure it's sharp enough to cut the rope Wario-Ware-Man?" Wario asked him.

"That's what I'm going to try find out right now..." Wario-Ware-Man said. He's about to cut the rope on the catapult until they see a Woodster on a glider flying above them.

"Hm... why didn't I think of this right from the beginning?" Wario-Ware-Man asked himself.

"Well, suppose the method we're about to try now just simply ain't gonna work, eh?" Wario said.

"... You're right. I've been such a idiot the whole time... on the other hand, let's go get that Woodster guys!" Wario-Ware-Man said and hops into the catapult along with Wario. After cutting the rope the three of them are then fired off into the air. As they approach the Woodster on the glider they try to grab hold of his feet, but miss him and lands right into a flower house on Maya's backgarden.

"Oowch... since when was there an flower house here??" Wario said.

"No idea... there's a buncha flowers in here though." Wario-Ware-Man said.

While in there they spot jars all around them, with Maya standing at one of the jars having just extracted some honey from one of the flowers she's grown into it.

"Oh, hi guys. What do you think about my flowers?" Maya said.

"Wow... call me amazed, but... how do you extract that honey from all these flowers??" Wario-Ware-Man asked her.

"It's... a secret, tee hee... anyway, I can tell you a little bit... it involves sticking an nail into the flower, then you put a straw into the flower, and squeeze it a little bit and extract the honey into the jar." Maya explained to them.

"Well, we see you've been quite busy all day!" Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Yes, but all the work was worth it in the end. You may have a look around in here if you want." Maya said and heads out with all the jars in her hands. Wario-Ware-Man and his siblings then decide to head outside as well.

"Yaawn... Whaddya say guys? Is it time for us to quit this entire flying thing? I mean, we haven't really achieved anything out of this anyway." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"A complete waste of time indeed..." Wario said.

"And I knew of this since the beginning of this story anyway..." VARIO said.

As the Wario bros are about to call their flying session off they spot the Woodster on his glider again.

"Hm... maybe we should try ONE last time." Wario-Ware-Man said.

"Ok then... but if even this fails, then we're definitely quitting this." Wario said.

"Alright. We'll use the trampoline on the pool to gain height!" Wario-Ware-Man said and runs along with his pals to Maya's pool, and use the trampoline to jump high enough to reach the Woodster. They manage to grab on to his feet and are now flying almost like birds. From here on they will be in for a real flight.

"Yeah, we're flying. We're flying!!" Wario shouted in excitement.

"See, I told ya guys that it's possible to fly as long as the right method is available to us!" Wario-Ware-Man said. They stay airborne for quite a while, but their joy is shortlived, since an airplane suddenly appears in front of them. They crash into the airplane, causing a huge explosion. What happens to them is never shown, but VARIO appears to have survived the impact because he's shown floating down the skies with a parachute on his back.

"Well... I knew this sort of stuff could happen to us at some point, so you've gotta be prepared for the worst... I do wonder where my siblings could be now though, or what even happened to them..." VARIO said as he keeps floating down.

"Whatever, I'm sure they'll be fine... only thing I can think of right now is to get back home, sit on the sofa with a bowl of garlic, and find something decent on the TV to watch..." VARIO said to himself, not minding the others much for the time being.

And... well, this is how another episode ends... in episode #5 VARIO will be going on a little treasure hunt, but will this treasure of his turn out to be real or fake? Who knows... we'll find it out by then I suppose.

The End...